

Are we to regard Christians as terrorists because they are engaged in a holy war against evil? Militant secularists might like to think so but this book shows that the Christians conflict is spiritual and his weapons are not carnal. By reference to the case of Job the significance of activities in the invisible world are opened up and lessons are learned relevant to the good fight of faith. By reference to Leviathan the reader is introduced to man-made dragons and shown the mystery of the defeat of such monstrous enemies of good. The Divine plan for history is considered to provide an understanding of where Gods road map of global conflict is leading. Consideration of the ghost of the tyranny of Nimrod, found among the ancient Mayans of Central America and explored in Mel Gibsons Apocalypto, provides useful mirrors to consider our modern age. Practical guidance is given for escaping the reign of death and defeating the culture of death. The final chapter explains why Christians are always more than conquerors irrespective of their circumstances. This book provides practical guidance relevant to our modern times based upon the authoritative teaching of the Bible.
