I had also requested it of Colonel Sankey; merely out of re fpect, though with no expectation of luccesfs, white a relation of his own, however unqualified, ftood in want of it. That, however, there might be fome pretext for palling me over, it was fo managed that, from the mefs at New Abbey, which had fo unjuftly quarrelled with me, a memorial to Colonel Sankey was procured, requefting him to appoint his brother, and my accufer, Major, in the room of Major Crampton. This memorial was of courfe moft graciously received, and infantly complied with. Upon this Captain Richard Sankey left the regiment in difguft. The Lord Lieutenant having been pleafed to confirm the appointment, and Captain John Sankey having been made Major, I found it my duty to obey him as fuch. My letter produced to the Court, and my whole conduct manifelt how refpectfuUy I treated him. If the Lord Lieutenant had made the Majors horfe my commanding officer, I would have thought it my duty to refped the horfe; but I would not deem it neceflary that either the Major, or his horfe, fhould trample upon me. I returned from Mageny on the 9th or 10th of January; I found Mr. Sankey, Major, fully inftalled, in direct violation of the Act of Parliament; the certificate of his qualification--the third by him given while yet an uncertified Bankrupt; (for in that time he had received three convniflions.) muft be falfe, if he has fworn truly to his creditors; and Colonel Sankey cannot be ignorant of his circuTiftances. I found alfo my rooms in the barrack feized, and even my furniture, by the Surgeon in my abfence. I
